

Three interesting things in California

Along Route 66 in California there are a lot of interesting things that young people may like to do. Those beautiful natural sites and facilities are waiting for you to try.

The first thing that I want to recommend to you is the World's First McDonald's. The World's First McDonald's is located in San Bernardino, California. It has ties to Route 66. The first one located here and founded by the McDonald Brothers was demolished. However, it has been replaced with a museum by the McDonald's Corporation.

The second interesting thing you may see is Pharaoh's Lost Kingdom. It is a theme family entertainment center located in the heart of the Inland Empire of Southern California. Pharaoh's features over 20 acres of attractions including a large water park, four miniature golf courses, three go-kart tracks, laser tag arena, and indoor arcade. In September 2006, Pharaoh's permanently closed the midway ride park and sky coaster.

During the trip along Route 66 in California you can stay in the Wigwam Motel, also in San Bernardino. The Wigwam is near the border of Rialto. It is the shape of a lozenge. It is very comfortable place for young people to stay and have a good rest.

In our limited lifetimes, we must try different experiences and even go abroad. Don't waste time, enjoy your time. Spend time on Route 66.
