The Missouri State is in the Midwestern region of in the U.S.A. Missouri's capital is Jefferson city and the 18th populous state. Missouri's climate is more humid than other state because it has Missouri river which divides into Mississippi and Missouri rivers. I chose three interesting places in Missouri State. And I will introduce it.

The first place is St. Louis Gateway Arch. It was 630 feet stainless steel arch and it was built in 1967. It cost about 13 million dollars to build. Visitors can take an elevator to top of the arch and look over the city. Because it is very tall, they can see a good view. Maybe you also will love there.

The second place is the Chain of Rocks Bridge. It is nearby Mississippi river on the north St. Louis, Missouri. The bridge's name comes from a rock ledge which reaches over the river like a chain. The bridge was used by route66 to cross over the Mississippi. Now it also has walking and bike trails over the river.

The last place is area of the Mother Road. It has legend, called Devil's Elbow. The road was one of the most feared and dangerous section of route66. Today it is a pleasant place in a beautiful park. If you saw the Devil's Elbow Resort on the hill, you would understand why this resort was built and why it is now so popular. I believe this area become one of my favorite place in Missouri.

The Missouri state has many beautiful places. Among them I picked three sites. I think this state has both of natural and artificial places. So if you visited Missouri, you can see many beautiful sites and compare. I believe it will be good experience to you.
